PLOT: LINKS IN A CHAIN

Plot is a series of events or scenes within a book, short story, film or production that when placed together in a meaningful and strategic way, create an exciting overarching story. It is perhaps best illustrated by the shape given below.

overarching story. It is perhaps best illustrated by the shape given below. Climax The highest point of emotional intensity or suspense within the story. (That feeling of, Internal/External Conflict "I can't put this book down right now!") The posed question or problem that must be solved by the main character throughout the course of the story. Falling Action A series of events after the Climax that have a calming effect on Reader. These Rising Action events tie up "loose ends" that might have A series of "Events" or "Scenes" in the been exposed prior to the Climax. story like links in a chain that create tension caused by the main character's internal and/or external conflict and ultimately build into a climax. Resolution The ending of the story that effectively gives "resolution" to all events in the story Exposition and "resolves" the conflict(s) that was An "Inciting Incident" or "Hook," in introduced at the beginning of the story. addition to any necessary background information, facts or insights the Reader needs to know in order to be drawn into the story. VANESSA JOY CHANDLER writer · publisher · creative